Mr. J. C. Dana, Librarian,
Free Public Library,
Newark, N. J.

Dear Sir:

Owing to the illness of our stenographer, I am unable to ascertain whether you have been informed of your election to Associate Membership to this Society.

This was done at a recent meeting of our Council, and to safeguard the word not having reached you previously, I am sending you this explanation together with a memorandum. If there has been a duplication, will you kindly disregard this letter.

May I avail myself of this opportunity to assure you that we shall very gladly welcome you whenever you find it possible to visit our Museum, and if you will make yourself known to me personally, I shall be only too glad to place at your disposal, any portion of our collection which may not be on exhibition at the time of your visit.

Very respectfully yours,

Enclosure.

Gentlemen:

Replying to your letter of June 22, our dues, $5. for 1920 were paid in January. So far as our records show, we have received from you no bill for the Peace Medal received August, 1919, or the Prince of Wales Medal received in January, 1920. If you will send bills for these two Medals, we will remit.

Yours truly,

Gentlemen:

The first comprehensive directory of mailing lists is being prepared by the Business Branch of the Library. It is to be published by a well-known publisher and will be extensively advertised.

The information we have about your publication is incomplete. You will therefore not be fully listed. To give your publication the proper listing we need a copy of it for analysis. Will you send us a complimentary copy of the latest edition for this purpose?

If it is no longer being published we should be glad to get this information.

Attention of Mr. J. C. Dana.

Dear Sir:-

Your letter of November 2nd is the first intimation we have had regarding the non-delivery of the Peck medal sent you.

On November 28th last, when you ordered this medal from us, we instructed the Medallie Art Company to ship a bronze copy direct to you.

We are at a loss to understand why it is that we did not receive word from you before this although three bills were rendered you. Had you notified us at the proper time, some action could have been taken, but we regret to say that we are now unable to send you another medal as we did not have a copy left at the expiration of the subscription and no more can be struck. The only thing we can see to do is to cross the amount off our books.

Very truly yours,

Acting Secretary.

Dear Sir:

It was not intended that Mr. Dana, the Librarian of this Library, should be dropped from your list as an associate member and the request to have the magazine "Notes and Monographs" discontinued was an error on our part.

Mr. Dana desires to be continued as an associate member and the bill for dues will be paid by this Library as formerly.

Gentlemen:

We have had a great many inquiries recently for books giving the values of old coins. Could you suggest some recent titles of books which we might be able to obtain? We have the Scott coin catalogs and a few publications of Max Mehl.

If you can suggest any titles also on American coinage, we would be glad to have this information.

Miss Beatrice Winsor, Librarian
Art Department
The Public Library of Newark
Newark, N. J.

Dear Miss Winsor:

Responding to your letter of October 3rd asking for titles of books giving the valuation of old coins. The difficulty in handling inquiries of this nature is because an accurate description of the condition of a coin is something on which no two people are likely to agree and it is this condition of the piece which to a large degree determines the value of a coin. All of the dealers handbooks giving approximations are unsatisfactory because they give a minimum at which they expect to obtain a coin which is frequently worth more than the price that is quoted; but again the condition of the piece will sometimes cause a doubling or tripling of the value of the same denomination. My suggestion would therefore be that you avoid any attempt at evaluating coins.

Of the dealers handbooks not mentioned by you the following might prove useful: Wayne Raymond, 465 Park Avenue, New York City, "United States Gold Coins of the Philadelphia and Branch Mints", Thomas E. Elder, 8 West 47th Street, New York City, "Elder Rare Coin Book", Guttay Brothers, 42 Stone Street, New York City, "Rare Coins of the United States". The above price lists are to be had at something in the neighborhood of $1.00 a piece and frequently enable one to tell an inquirer that the particular piece which he has is common and therefore of too little value to warrant doing anything further with it. If this information proves to be of any aid to you, I shall be very glad.

Very truly yours,

The Public Library of Newark New Jersey

Mr. Sydney P. Noe, Secy.,
The American Numismatic Society,

My dear Mr. Noe:

We wish to thank you for your letter regarding titles of books giving the valuation of old coins. We have all those that you mention and only wondered whether there was anything else on the market that we could add to our collection.

We always warn people using those books that the valuation given is only an estimate and generally urge them to take their coins to a reliable coin dealer.
